Customer Retention Policy

Version 3.2 - Effective 1 January 2026 - Internal

1. Purpose and Scope

This policy defines how the Customer Success organization identifies, escalates and mitigates churn risk across all B2B accounts. It applies to Account Managers, Customer Success Managers and Regional VPs.

2. Risk Tiers

Accounts are classified using the churn-risk score produced by the Enterprise Intelligence Platform. High Risk: predicted churn probability of 0.60 or higher. Medium Risk: predicted churn probability from 0.30 up to 0.60. Low Risk: predicted churn probability below 0.30.

3. Escalation Requirements

High Risk accounts must receive an executive outreach call within 5 business days. A written save plan must be approved by the Regional VP within 10 business days. Medium Risk accounts require a customer success manager check-in within 15 business days.

4. Discount Authority

Account Managers may approve retention discounts of up to 10 percent of annual contract value. Discounts between 10 and 20 percent require Regional VP approval. Discounts above 20 percent require CFO approval. No retention discount may exceed 30 percent under any circumstances.

5. Executive Sponsor Program

Accounts with annual contract value of 100,000 USD or more must be assigned an executive sponsor. Executive sponsors hold a quarterly business review with the customer.

6. Renewal Management

Renewal conversations must begin 120 days before the contract end date. Accounts within 60 days of renewal with declining usage are flagged as Renewal Watch and reviewed weekly.

7. Adoption Recovery

When seat utilization falls below 50 percent, a training and enablement plan must be offered within 30 days. A usage decline of more than 20 percent over 90 days triggers a customer health review.
